The Traveler's Gift: Seven Decisions that Determine Personal Success - The Seventh Decision (part 2)<sup>i</sup>

The final decision for success is to persist without exception.

The power of choice is the greatest power ever bestowed upon mankind; today, choose to persist without exception.

When you commit to this decision, no longer will your focus be tossed about "like a leaf on a blustery day." You know the outcome you desire; stay the course, do not quit.

Most people quit when exhaustion sets in, but you are not "most people" – you are strong; you do not accept exhaustion.

Consider a child learning to walk. Do you not have "more strength than a child? More understanding? More desire?" By persisting without exception, your success is (just about) assured. Even if you are struggling, focus on the outcome you desire. An athlete does not enjoy the pain of training, but does enjoy the results of that training. Similarly, a young bird must be pushed from the nest, afraid and tumbling, before lifting its wings to fly.

Have faith in your future. Do not look left, right, or backwards; simply persist.

Next week: We review all seven decisions for success.

Quote:

"For I know the plans I have for you, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future." - The Traveler's Gift

Confidently yours,

Steve
