*The Traveler's Gift: Seven Decisions that Determine Personal Success - The Fourth Decision (part 2)*ⁱ

If you are determined to succeed, you must have a decided heart. You cannot complete a race by shuffling left, right, and backwards. You must move forward. You control your direction.

Are you passionate about your vision for the future?

Greet each day with excitement; embrace the possibilities for opportunity, growth, and change. Always move forward; do not stray "into the dark forest of doubt or the muddy quicksand of self-pity." Allow others to see your passion and vision for the future. As they see the belief in your eyes, they too will believe in you and follow you.

End each day with a calm tiredness, knowing that you did everything in your power to move the mountains in your path that day. As you sleep, the dream that dominates your waking life will settle into your subconscious, renewing itself for another day of accomplishment and new steps in the days that follow. Do not apologize for your dreams – "A person without a dream never had a dream come true."

Do not procrastinate. Confront the problems interfering with your dreams. When you lead with a decided heart, those problems will seem smaller, and can easily be defeated. You chart your course and assure your destiny.

Next week: David Ponder meets one of the most inspirational young girls in the history of the world – Anne Frank.

Quote:

"Indecision limits the Almighty and His ability to perform miracles in your life. He has put the vision in you – proceed! To wait, to wonder, to doubt, to be indecisive is to disobey God." – Christopher Columbus, The Traveler's Gift

Confidently yours,

Steve
